Visit Your Data Lake Before Buying the Cabin

As the application of Big Data becomes less of a nice-to-have and more of a competitive necessity, it's clear that a significant investment in new technology is inevitable. The required combination of cost and commitment is daunting; making the right decision, the first time, is imperative. Buying a whole cabin sight-unseen just to explore your data lake seems reckless. Instead, Ranzal's Oracle Big Data Pilot offers the opportunity to test the waters of your data lake prior to making a buying decision.

Set Aside Obstacles to Investigate and Explore

Skip the negotiation, installation, and configuration. Don't worry about making space in your data center. Instead, dive right in and let Ranzal's experts guide you through Oracle's various Big Data solutions and pull in your own data. Our methodology will reveal your company's analytic needs, identify the best Big Data use cases for your organization, establish success criteria for the pilot, highlight any gaps in the out-of-the-box solutions, and prescribe the best approach for big data success. Ideally, we'll discover that the Oracle and Hadoop differentiators are right for you and justify your investment. Alternatively, critical obstacles will be uncovered and course corrected far before the point of no return.

The Pilot Provides these Benefits:

- + Pre-installed Oracle Big Data software suite in the Oracle Cloud
- + Scalable memory and compute power
- + Expert guidance and methodology
- + Use of your own data
- + Piece-by-piece exploration of Oracle's various Big Data offerings
- + Fixed professional services cost and no Oracle license commitment
